SMARTPLUG GROWS WITH NEW VP OF OPERATIONS

Welcoming a new member to its growing team, SmartPlug Systems brings on a VP of operations. Greg Duncan will oversee the daily operations of the company. He will assist with business development and project management in areas such as research and development, manufacturing and shipping and receiving. Duncan will help create SmartPlug's nationwide marketing and sales campaign.

With over 20 years of experience in the marine industry, Duncan comes to SmartPlug from AFI, a division of Marinco. He held multiple positions there, including regional sales manager, vendor manager and marketing/product manager.

"We're very excited to add Greg to the SmartPlug team due to his extensive knowledge in the marine industry," said Ken Smith, SmartPlug CEO. "His aptitude in marketing and sales will undoubtedly enable SmartPlug Systems to expand our market share among shorepower system manufacturers."

SmartPlug Systems recently introduced the first safe and easy-to-use alternative to the current shorepower standard in 70 years. Transforming boaters' access to AC power, SmartPlug incorporates unparalleled safety features to help prevent the leading causes of marine fires.
